NO AGREEMENTS
WITH AMERICA
AT CONFERENCE

United States Had No Part In Lausanne Deliberations

BULLETIN.
Washington, July 12—(AP)—Secretary Stimson reiterated emphatically today to newspapermen that the United States had said nothing to the participants in the Lausanne reparations conference concerning a possible revision of war debts.

The Secretary of State said that notwithstanding any statements made in the British parliament that conversations had been had with American representatives abroad, no authorized move had been made by United States diplomats abroad to this end.

London, July 12—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald, replying to the House of Commons today on the reparations negotiations at Lausanne, scouted the argument that the governments could have waited for "certain elections"—by which he meant the American presidential election in November.

"I have become tired of waiting for elections," he exclaimed.

The Prime Minister asserted Lausanne marked an essential step toward world economic recovery and he expressed the hope the conference had put an end to the uncertainties from which business has suffered.

"Where would the world have been without Lausanne?" he demanded.

So long as German reparations lasted, the Prime Minister said, there could be no complete economic recovery.

Couldn't Be Delayed

He ridiculed the idea that it would have been possible to put off settlement of the reparations issue until next March.

Just before MacDonald started his report to the House of Commons on the negotiations which resulted in scaling down Germany's payments to three billion marks approximately $712,500,000, in American money, it was announced by an official source that there had been neither conversation nor agreement between British and American representatives regarding any revision of war debts in connection with the Lausanne treaty.

Before the House of Commons yesterday the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, asserted that before the "gentlemen's agreement" was reached at Lausanne there had been consultation with "representatives of the United States" under this "gentlemen's agreement" it is understood the Lausanne treaty will be inoperative unless the European nations obtain satisfactory reductions of their debts to the United States.

Statement Misunderstood
An authoritative spokesman declared Mr. Chamberlain made his assertion that before the "gentlemen's agreement" was reached at Lausanne there had been consultation with "representatives of the United States" under this "gentlemen's agreement" it is understood the Lausanne treaty will be inoperative unless the European nations obtain satisfactory reductions of their debts to the United States.

Mr. Chamberlain's statement was interpreted by some newspapermen as a hint that secret agreement on war debt revision had been made with the United States before Germany's reparations bill was cut to about $750,000,000.

(At Washington yesterday Secretary of State Stimson said no representative of the State Department had anything to do with framing the so-called "gentlemen's agreement," which provides that the reparations settlement shall not go into effect until the United States scales down its debt claims.)

The Chamberlain statement was made in the House of Commons in reply to an attack by Winston Churchill in which the latter said that, from his knowledge of public opinion in America, he believed "no more unfortunate approach toward debt cancellation could have been made than the procedure at Lausanne."

Attacked Churchill
The Chamberlain replied that it was embarrassing to him to have to anticipate the Prime Minister's speech today, and that Mr. Churchill's attack "had done no service to Britain."

"After all," he said, "we were in touch at Lausanne, not only with European representatives, but we also had an opportunity of conversations with the representatives of the United States, so we ask the House to believe that, in this rather delicate situation, we have no reason to think that the United States has been going to lead to any of those unfortunate results Mr. Churchill anticipates."

He begged the government not to bring the question to a head until after the American presidential election, declaring that to raise it now in the atmosphere of the election would be disastrous to the ever-growing number of friends of debt revision in the United States.

R. R. Bridges Damaged
During Night

Athens, O., July 12—(AP)—A man was killed and two railroad bridges damaged as the result of fresh flare-ups of mine strike trouble at Athens, Athens county, last night and early today.

The dead man, Ray Freeman, 18, of Buchtel, was shot through the chest and was believed to have fallen during exchanges of shots between Ohio National Guardsmen and unknown persons who fired on the soldiers' camp shortly after midnight.

The Kanawha & Michigan Railroad bridge at Albany was fired but the blaze was extinguished before serious damage resulted.

A terrific explosion early today officials said was caused by dynamite shook the Chesapeake & Ohio main line bridge at Chauncey, badly damaging the central portion of the structure. The detonation jarred the country for miles around, and officials said at least 100 pounds of the explosive must have been used.

National Guard officers and Sheriff Wayne Wingett early today arrested four men whom they charged with inciting to riot.

BASS HATCHERY
ON FRANKLIN
CREEK PLANNED

Local Fishermen Consider Project To Erect Such Institution

A project which has for its purpose the purchase of a tract of land along Franklin Creek north of Dixon, for the establishment of a bass hatchery is being agitated by sportsmen of Dixon, Franklin Grove, Ashton, Mt. Morris, Oregon and Polo. The proposed site includes the huge spring on the Schultz brothers farm, which investigation has shown is naturally adapted to a bass hatchery. In the past few years the Dixon Isaak Walton League and sportsmen from this locality have attempted to interest the state conservation department in the establishment of a hatchery devoted to the raising of black bass, but without success.

Sponsors of the project will circulate petitions in this vicinity within the next few days, it was reported today, for signatures of those favoring the establishment of the hatchery. Several fishermen have been consulted and are unanimously in favor of taking immediate steps to bring about the completion of the project.

State Not Interested
Since the state Department of Conservation has not appeared to be interested in the natural site, it is now the plan to build the hatchery from funds subscribed by those who are sponsoring the plan. It is estimated that by an expenditure of approximately $5,000 the land can be purchased and the hatchery constructed. Several of the sponsors of the project have tendered their services in the building of the hatchery while others have offered machinery and equipment in the way of tractors and graders to dig the necessary hatchery basins and overflow canal, which will be necessary to care for high water in Franklin Creek.

The sponsors of the plan, after conducting a survey, have decided that a sufficient amount of pure spring water is obtainable from the single large spring to supply the entire hatchery without the drilling of any wells. It is also believed by those who are heading the campaign that within five years a sufficient number of fingerling bass will be available for sale to make the hatchery self-supporting.

It is understood that the plans call for initial stocking of Pine Creek at the Pines state park, Rock river at Amboy, Franklin Creek at Dixon, and other creeks which have been "fished-out" of bass.

All of these streams are tributaries to Rock river and it is believed that the river will also be stocked by the fingerlings, which will within five years make all streams in this locality a mecca for fly fishermen who are fanciers of bass fishing. It has also been suggested that an experiment be conducted in the propagation of German brown trout, should the project prove successful.

Eggs are now being preserved by treating them with carbon dioxide and nitrogen. This treatment is said to preserve eggs for a year.

Fewer Young Pigs Reported On Farms
Washington, July 12—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture today reported the number of young pigs on farms on June 1 was 50,093,000, a decrease of 3,758,000 compared with the same date of last year.

The decrease estimate was attributed to a drop of 3 per cent in the number of sows farrowed and of four per cent in the average number of pigs saved per litter.

It was largest in the western part of the corn belt. Of the seven states in the west north central group, five showed decreases ranging from eleven per cent in Iowa to 40 per cent in South Dakota. Increases were reported, however, in Kansas and Missouri.

Gains also were shown for all states in the east north central group, except Wisconsin. For the north central group (the corn belt) the number of young pigs on farms was 39,782,000 head, a decrease of 4,554,000 or 10.3 per cent from a year earlier.

Corn Huskers Will Meet In Grundy Co.
Cambridge, Ill., July 12—(AP)—The 1932 national corn husking contest will be held on November 10 in Henry County, Illinois, according to plans completed this week by representatives of the Midwest and Capper farm papers and the Henry County Farm Bureau and community organizations. This biggest of agricultural athletic events will bring together the two best huskers from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, South Dakota, Kansas and Ohio to decide the championship of the corn belt.

The contest will be featured by a nation-wide broadcast direct from the field.

This is the second time that the national event has been held in Illinois. In 1926 Elmer Williams of Stark county, Illinois husked 35.8 bushels in the hour and 20 minutes to establish the world's contest record that has never yet been equalled in state or national matches.

NEW GRAND EXALTED RULER OF ELKS WARNS FRATERNITY
AGAINST COMMUNISM THREAT

Former Justice State Supreme Court Was Honored Today

Birmingham, Ala., July 12—(AP)—Floyd Eugene Thompson, who rose from school master to a place on the Illinois Supreme Court bench, was elected to the highest office of Elksdom today.

He was named Grand Exalted Ruler of the Grand Lodge without opposition after his name was placed before the convention by Bruce Campbell, East St. Louis, a fellow member of Moline lodge number 556. He succeeds John R. Coen, Sterling, Colo.

A native of Roodhouse, Ill., Thompson prepared himself for bar while teaching school. He was admitted to the practice of law in 1911 and a year later was named State's Attorney for Rock Island county, Illinois. He was re-elected in 1916 and subsequently served a term as President of the Illinois State's Attorneys Association.

Thompson was a successful candidate for the Illinois Supreme Court in 1919 and remained on the bench until 1928 when he resigned to become a candidate for Governor of the state. He has a law office in Chicago.

He became an honorary life member of Moline Lodge in 1931, where he served in various offices and has been a member of the Grand Forum since 1928.

Issues Warning
Warning the fraternity to guard against Communism, the new Grand Exalted Ruler, appealed to the Grand Lodge to "fight together to restore happiness and prosperity to our land."

"The problems of the day call for the best that is in us," he said in his speech accepting the highest office of the Grand Lodge. "The ghost of unemployment and business stagnation is abroad in this land of plenty. The demands of our charity will be great and we must prepare to meet these demands."

Easy times breed habits of indolence and indifference, Mr. Thompson declared, adding, "a race or individual improves in strength and capacity not through ease but through struggle."

"In these times," he said, "members of our order can show their real worth as citizens. We must interest ourselves in public affairs. Our country is entitled to intelligent constructive thinking and action from us. We must guard against the perils of Communism."

"We are the sons of a race of men and women who have won admiration of the world for their independence, industry and efficiency. They did not falter when the going was hard. We appeal to you to help me place this great American fraternity in the vanguard of our nation's builders and defenders."

Touching on the aims and objectives of the Elks, Mr. Thompson described Elksdom as a national institution.

Eggs are now being preserved by treating them with carbon dioxide and nitrogen. This treatment is said to preserve eggs for a year.

MILLS ASSAILS
GOV. ROOSEVELT
IN FIRST SPEECH

Secretary of Treasury In Boston to Open Republican Campaign

Boston, July 12—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, last night opened the Republican presidential campaign by criticizing in its entirety the acceptance address of the Democratic nominee, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

Boston's historical Faneuil Hall last night was the setting for the criticisms and denunciations of Secretary Mills, who centered his address around the charge that Gov. Roosevelt has no program to meet the economic situation.

The Treasury Secretary sought of the New York Governor "specifically what the administration has failed to do or has done in this emergency that is open to fair criticism."

To the criticism directed at the administration's credit achievements, Mills pointed to the establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and provisions for additional credit for Federal Land Banks and banks allied with agriculture.

Gov. Roosevelt's tariff utterances came in for criticism and Mills disapproved the Democratic nominee's plan to "enter into a series of bargaining tariffs according to the European practice."

The pledges of Gov. Roosevelt and his party to drastic economic, abolition of useless offices and consolidation of government bureaus were met with the assertion that "expenditures of the state of New York increased by one third from 1929 to 1931, that Democrats of the House voted by a large majority for Garner's pork barrel measure," and that they declined to give the President the authority to abolish useless bureaus.

Hubert Bahen Was Painfully Burned

(Telegraph Special Service)

Utica, Ill., July 12—Hubert Bahen, who conducts the Gateway service station and refreshment stand north of this place on state highway, Route 7, was painfully burned today at the hands of a fire at his place of business Saturday evening. The fire did considerable damage in the kitchen where it originated in an electric iron which had been forgotten and on which the electric current was turned on.

Bahen, upon hearing the fire rushed into the blazing kitchen with a bucket of water and in attempting to extinguish the flames was badly burned. According to the attending physician his burns are not considered to be of a serious nature.

The Utica fire department was summoned and with the aid of chemicals extinguished the fire which had for a time threatened to destroy the entire lunch stand and service station property.

Robbers Abandon Loot In Grocery

Prowlers locked in the plate glass on the front door and entered the Frank C. Sproul grocery on North Galena avenue, presumably at an early hour this morning, and from all appearances spent some time ransacking the stock. The intruders feasted for some time, ransacking the ice box and sampling its contents, removing food from the shelves and consuming melons and fruit, throwing the refuse about on the floor.

As they feasted they assembled quite a variety of articles from the stock, which they packed in a large basket. The contents of the cash register amounting to about three dollars was also dumped into the basket together with several cartons of cigarettes. From all appearance the intruders were frightened away as they ransacked the stock and assembled their loot. Nothing was missed when the attempted robbery was discovered by employees who opened the store and reported at once to the police.

Wounds Fatal To Captured Killer
South Bend, Ind., July 12—(AP)—The death of James Storey brought an end today to a full week of homicide, holdups and kidnappings.

Struck down by police bullets as he fled from officers here yesterday, Storey died in a hospital last night as efforts were started to return him to North Baltimore, O., for the slaying of Jay Davis, Town Marshal.

Other crimes charged against the 22-year-old St. Paul, Minn., gunman included the wounding of Dr. Martin Larkin at Toledo, O., four kidnappings and the robbery of a gasoline filling station.

Two brothers, Bert Storey, 19, and Manley, 17, were captured when Davis was shot.

SECOND RELIEF
BILL IS READY FOR ENACTMENT

Measure Suitable To Mr. Hoover Promised By Congressmen

BULLETIN
Washington, July 12—(AP)—The House Rules committee today postponed action on the proposed investigation of the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board until the December session of Congress.

Washington, July 12—(AP)—The new Wagner unemployment relief bill was approved today by the Senate Banking committee and prepared for consideration in the Senate later this afternoon.

In the House meanwhile preparations went ahead also for drafting a measure along lines wanted by the administration.

The Senate committee made virtually no change in the bill which was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Wagner (D. N. Y.) to replace the $2,122,000,000 bill vetoed by President Hoover.

It voted an amendment, however, to reorganize the Reconstruction Corporation in accordance with the President's recommendations in a special message to Congress yesterday, increasing the membership of the board by one.

Another amendment, was voted by the committee to prevent loans by the corporation to financial institutions officers of which have been directors of the corporation within the past year.

To Aid Individuals
Included in the new bill approved by the committee is authorization for loans to individuals through Federal Reserve Banks when the Federal Reserve Board approves.

The relief bill as it now stands, ready for Senate consideration, still carries a total relief program of $2,100,000,000.

The only major change from the bill which the President vetoed, is the substitution of the provision for individual loans through the Federal Reserve Board for loans through the Reconstruction Corporation.

After a conference with President Hoover in which he said the relief legislation had been discussed, Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, told newspapermen a relief bill suitable to the President would be passed by the House before tomorrow night.

He was accompanied by Representatives Hawley (R. Ore.) and Treadway (R. Mass.).

Radicals Protest
Meantime, in a formal statement a group of House progressives protested against the President's veto and again urged a large public works program.

They were Representatives LaGuardia (R. N. Y.) Kvale (Farmer-Labor, Minn.), Keller (D. Ill.) Norton (D. Neb.) and Amle (R. Wis.).

The statement said the Reconstruction Finance bill loaned or was committed to cost $1,054,184,466.59 and that no visible benefit to unemployment or agriculture has been produced.

The five urged a "complete program of public works of sufficient magnitude to check the downward spiral of deflation."

Their statement also suggested that Congress, instead of adjourning, recess, subject to immediate call in case of emergency.

Plan Adjournment
With relief nearer conclusion, leaders on both sides of the Capitol agreed to make a strenuous effort to adjourn Thursday or Saturday at the latest. There already were about 120 absentees in the House and 20 in the Senate, home campaigning.

blaren e13 lwfbb uLu m
How soon the House would take up the Senate-approved Glass bill for nearly a billion dollar expansion of the currency was doubtful. This proposition was tacked on to the Home Loan Bank bill by a 53 to 18 vote, and the Senate proceeded today toward final action on the measure.

The Glass bill would permit issuance of currency against $995,000,000 in United States bonds now held by National banks.

The Senate launched two congressional investigations while the House worked toward another. Without record votes, the Senate accepted a proposal for the usual campaign expenditures committee as well as the idea of Senator Cozens (R. Mich.) for a study of whether the Reconstruction Corporation has made its loans in strict accord with law.

In the House the Rules committee went ahead with hearings on the Treasury-Federal Reserve Board-Comptroller of the Currency investigation supported by Garner.

Illinois Man

Of Order Elks

HON. FLOYD E. THOMPSON

TWO ARRESTED
IN EXTORTION
PLOT THIS MORNAdopted Son Wealthy
Chicago Packer
Got Threats

Lake Bluff, Ill., July 12—(AP)—Two men were arrested by Chicago detectives today and charged with a $50,000 extortion plot and the threatened kidnapping of Patricia Durand, two-year-old daughter of Jack Durand.

The prisoners are Joseph Verdicco, 35, and Pete Conniff, 52, Chicago. Verdicco is a former policeman.

Two weeks ago Jack Durand, the 30-year-old adopted son of F. Scott Durand, wealthy packer, received a letter demanding $50,000 in bills of small denomination. He was directed to take the money to the corner of Adams and Wabash avenue in Chicago at 8 P. M. on June 27. Durand paid no heed to the demand and so far as the police here know, no effort was made to trap the extortionists.

Early today a man telephoned Durand renewing the demand for money and threatening to kidnap Patricia if the sum was not forthcoming. Durand immediately called police.

Walter Storms, Assistant Chief of Detectives at Chicago, and Detective William Hennessey hurried to the Durand home and in the neighborhood saw the two suspects. What evidence they had against the pair was not disclosed, but the officers said they would be taken to Chicago for fingerprinting and investigation.

Durand married Genevieve Geraghty of Lake Bluff.

In 1925 he was arrested at Venice, Calif., and served about two years in Joliet, Ill., penitentiary for a robbery at the North Shore home of F. Edison White, late head of Armour & Company.

A fortnight ago Mrs. Jack Durand was warned that the money must be ready today or her child would be taken. Patricia was then placed under guard and taken to the Crabtree farm.

The detectives hurried to the farm at 3 A. M., and when the alleged plotters appeared at 9 o'clock they were promptly arrested.

Conniff said he was formerly a coal miner in southern Illinois.

Cook Co. Moves
To Seize Property

Chicago, July 12—(AP)—Cook county has swung into action against its delinquent taxpayers, by filing motions to seize 600,000 parcels of real estate, representing approximately half the domain of the county.

Request for judgments to collect $150,000,000 now due on 1930 assessments was made yesterday by County Attorney Hayden Bell. County Judge Edmund K. Jarceki granted the owners until July 16 to file objections, and at the same time accorded taxpayers who wish to take advantage of his plan to pay their obligations in four installments the right to regard the action as an objection, thus extending the due date for the first installment until July 25.

JURY'S VERDICT
IN DEATH SMITH
REYNOLDS OPEN

Finds He Came To His Death At Hands Of "Unknown" Party

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 12—(AP)—Libby Holman Reynolds fought off physical and mental exhaustion today as plans were made for her to leave the palatial Reynolds family estate here where for two days she was held a prisoner as a material witness in the mysterious fatal shooting of her young husband, Smith Reynolds, tobacco fortune heir.

Alfred Holman of Cincinnati, her father, who stood by and comforted her yesterday as she testified for the second time before a Coroner's jury, said the former Broadway singer of blue songs would be taken to his home in Cincinnati. They will leave this afternoon.

He also told of plans for Libby to go away to some secluded spot for a while and recuperate from "the terrible experience she had to undergo before the Coroner's jury" as he described it.

Sheriff Not Through
Sheriff Scott today said his investigation of Reynolds' death was not closed, but he declined to say what his next step in the inquiry would be.

The Coroner's jury, after more than three hours deliberation last night, returned a verdict shortly before midnight that Smith Reynolds came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by "party or parties unknown."

The verdict served to release the torch singer from custody as a material witness, along with Ab Walker, life chum of Smith, who also had been held, but it was not endorsed by Holman.

"I know it was a case of suicide," he said with a show of feeling, adding "that is of course, as far as one can know anything without actually having seen it."

Grand Jury Meets
Whether it will end official interest in the death of the 20-year-old Reynolds following a corn whiskey party at his estate early on the morning of July 6, is undetermined. The grand jury was called to meet today. It is in its power to pursue the investigation.

Walker had been held in jail for two days as a material witness. He slipped quietly from sight early today and was believed to be in seclusion at the home of friends here.

Mrs. Reynolds who as Libby Holman was a Broadway favorite before her marriage last year to the young heir to part of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions, remained at the Reynolds estate where her husband was shot. With her were her parents. Although in a state of collapse, following her husband's death, she had been under guard there until last night's non-committal verdict freed her from custody.

Sensational Developments
Numerous developments, many sensational, marked the final day of the Coroner's inquest.

Beginning in early afternoon, questioning of witnesses, led by Mrs. Reynolds, occupied a six hour session.

The jury heard the 26-year-old widow, daughter of a Cincinnati attorney, describe unhappiness which prompted young Reynolds to make suicide threats on several occasions.

Some of these times, she said, she was led to believe he was crazy. At least once, she said, she expressed the belief to him. That was the last time she saw him.

She explained that he was melancholy, fearful that a lapse of virility would cost him her love.

BUTTERCUPS, BUTTERCUPS

Buttercups, buttercups,
What do you hold?
Buttercups, buttercups,
Minting your gold?

How do your rootlets
Flitch from the mire
Sunken sunbeams
To fountains of fire?

What losoms have crumbled
To lit you there,
You golden Amens
To Beauty's prayer?
You tip-toe and listen
To birds that rejoice
Blessed with a voice!
I also am hearing
Your golden words,
O buttercups, buttercups,
Rooted birds!

Claire Says Hopes Of Happiness Blasted

Los Angeles, July 12 —(AP)— Claire Windsor's dream of happiness which she hoped would become real in a marriage to Alfred C. Read, Jr., young Oakland broker, has broken, and today she admitted, "Now I know I am the cat."

The blonde stage and screen actress, under her signature in the Los Angeles Examiner, wrote the story of her association with Read whose wife, Mrs. Marion Y. Read has sued her for $100,000 alienation of affections and Read for divorce.

"I loved Alfred Read," the story read. "It was a beautiful love, different than any I had ever before known."

"He told me he wanted to marry me, wanted me to stop working on the stage and in pictures and be just his wife—his 'pal'."

"The idea appealed to me. He appealed to me. I have worked a great portion of my life, hard. I wanted to settle down, to love and be loved, to be his 'pal' waiting for him each night."

"I wanted, I planned to marry Alfred."

"All the money I had in the world—$10,000—I gave to him to invest. That is gone now."

Miss Windsor wrote that her hope for happiness was blasted on March 29, when Mrs. Read filed her suit. She said she met Read on a train to New York, and he said he was unmarried.

"Later he said he was married and estranged from his wife and getting a divorce," the article continued.

Does Not Want to Work for Roosevelt

Baltimore, July 12 —(AP)— Mrs. William Baldwin Lowndes, member of the executive committee of the Maryland Association for National Prohibition Reform and a former Republican National Committee woman, said today she feels under no obligation to work for the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt because the association has gone on record urging its members to vote for him.

"I am for repeal of the eighteenth amendment," she said. "It has brought about everything but the ideal conditions anticipated, and I am for liquor control and I think the Republican plank a more constructive plank than the Democratic, although both express a great similarity of ideas in different words."

"The resolution that was adopted by the executive committee of the National Association Opposed to Prohibition last Thursday at New York does not commit its membership to work for the Democratic candidate for the presidency," Mrs. Lowndes concluded, "it only urges."

The Ladies of the G. A. R. Circle 73, held their regular meeting and reception for the newly elected state Registrar, Florence Onnen, July 6th in G. A. R. hall. The hall was beautiful with decorations of flags and summer flowers and the committee are grateful for the donations.

The business meeting was called to order promptly at 7:15 o'clock by the president and such matter of business was disposed of as was necessary. All officers and a majority of members were present.

The meeting closed at 8 o'clock and the visitors were admitted. All patriotic orders and the Woman's club were well represented and after a short time for visiting and greetings, the meeting was called to order by the presiding officer.

The following program was given: Piano number—Paul Brookner, Jr.

Readings—Mrs. Deutsch. Cornet solo—Paul Marth.

One of these was loudly applauded and the circle wishes to express their thanks to these friends for their assistance.

The representatives of other organizations gave short talks each wishing the Registrar success in her work and hoped to see her climb the ladder higher if she so desired.

As the president presented Florence with a gift of pen and pencil set from the circle, Little Joan McCoy advanced with the gift resting on a small pink satin pillow. Joan made a pretty picture, all in white. She is a favorite with all, especially the Circle members. She was escorted by Miss Ella Smith, pianist of the Circle.

Frappe and wafers were served by the younger members of the Circle and each one felt it was the end of a perfect day. The most distinguished and honored guest was the mother of the registrar, Mrs. Everett and she and her daughter were asked to advance to the front where they were seated, during the program, between the courtesy flags. ## Fashion Plaque

IT'S MARVELOUS what a few balls of mercerized crochet thread and a steel crochet hook will do in fashioning the latest in millinery, such as the sailor type hat heretofore shown. It's actually easier to make than many of the berets, for it is entirely done in single crochet. If you want to make one, you will need five balls of the crochet thread, size three, and a number three steel hook.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

CHILD BY NEA SERVICE INC.

I wonder how many people noticed the small article recently about the experiments carried on with soap. In fact there have been several snubs in the papers during the last few months about similar interesting tests that I thought deserved large spreads on the front page instead of small boxes on the last.

Soap may not be news, but when we learn that it is one of the best germicides extant, that is news, isn't it. To my mind it is decidedly so.

Let me re-state briefly the contents of these items. Cakes of partially used soap have been gathered from every type of public place where all sorts of people left a bit of their grime behind. These were taken to laboratories and tested for every kind of germ and the report is that not a germ of any kind was found.

It refutes most of our old theories about soap, doesn't it? I always had a wholesome respect for a scrubbing brush, but now I look upon it as armour, a bunker against disease, and a friend to man. It has taken to itself a coat of arms — we can depict it no longer.

About five years ago, after we had had a contagious disease in the house, the Board of Health representative came and took the sign down. I then waited with resignation to be fumigated, but it seemed that they were going to do nothing of the kind. I was surprised and uneasy. We had always looked like a first class fire after such an illness — clothes lines everywhere, carpet turned up, mattresses doing somersaults, bureau drawers open and their contents blown about everywhere.

Soapuds Suggested

But no—they were not going to fumigate. If we wished we could get some formaldehyde lamps and burn them ourselves. But the officer advised me to use soapuds and plenty of it on everything washable in the room. "The other things," he had said, "you'd better hang out in the sun for a day or two. Anything you can't get at, burn it up. But soap and sun will do wonders."

Later a government report fell into my hands. In it I noticed the same things recommended. Of course during our illness we had used strong germicides in toilet places and in soaking anything that came in direct contact with the patient. I am sure that doctors there are times that direct battle against dangerous germs is necessary.

But these laboratory reports are very reassuring. Soap is a preventive. To know that when the children wash their hands with soap and water they are destroying germs is a very comfortable feeling. To know that clothes washed thoroughly once a week are pure is most gratifying. Think how germless all pets will be if thoroughly scrubbed. Oh, yes, cats too—we used to wash our two Angoras. Nice to know where little children play on the floor, that the rug or hardwood washed with soap is really clean.

I believe this is one case where a little knowledge is a good thing. Between soap and sunshine we should be able to keep the family reasonably well, I think. Teach children the soap habit.

Books New This Week at Library

Benefits Received—Rosman—An other of the romances which readers find so pleasantly diverting, by the author of "Visitors to Hugo," "Sixth Journey," and "Young Secret."

Black Tolls—Raine—William MacLeod Raine at his best in the story of the extraordinary and romantic adventures of the Tolls, an excitement-loving family of the western frontier, who turned from ranching to train robbing.

Pre-war Lady—Widdemer—The story of a beautiful girl who was just beginning to receive callers when our entrance into the world war brought on the hysteria of patriotism with its attendant deflection of anything in a uniform. The man who captured her affections was just anything. She goes overseas as an entertainer, is reported killed, her family dies, and she returns later to America, alone in the world. With this much of the plot you could write the story yourself, being very careful to make the ending a happy one. The heroine deserves it.

Petrarch in Literature

Petrarch lived in the Fourteenth century in the early days of the Italian Renaissance, and is remembered for the sonnets which he wrote in Italian and for his influence in reviving interest in classical antiquity. To the men of the Middle Ages this life seemed important chiefly as a preliminary period of trial before the day of judgment, and man's chief concern here was supposedly seeking salvation. Petrarch shared the intellectual curiosity and the delight in being alive that was common in the writers of Greece and Rome. Interest in this present life came to be a prominent characteristic of the Renaissance and of the generations since. It is because of his departure from the medieval ideals that Petrarch is now thought of as modern.

A NEW SCHOOL OF ORATORS.

Real oratory has been almost a lost art in American politics in recent years. Now it is beginning to look as if what is left of it is going to suffer a most profound change.

The impassioned shoutings, the majestic deliberation of address, the age-old tricks of the orator's trade—all of these, abruptly, have become handicaps instead of assets. The most moving political oration of the future is apt to be a quiet speech almost conversational in its tone.

You get this idea, anyway, after absorbing part of a political campaign by radio. It is the radio which is about to transform the orator's art—and the net result will be a distinct gain for the orator's listeners.

The recent party conventions illustrated the change admirably.

Sitting by the loudspeaker, you would hear Senator Whoozis or the Hon. Blank engaged in making the welkin ring. It would all be in the traditional manner. Each sentence would take anywhere from 30 seconds to two minutes to come to birth. There would be a long pause for wind after every fourth or fifth word. The orator's vocal cords would be torn in frenzied shouts until it would seem as if his throat must burst from the strain.

Then, when he had finished, a regular radio announcer would take the microphone to make some announcement—and what a contrast!

In a quiet, even voice he would prove himself capable of saying ten times as much in a given time, of saying it infinitely more clearly and of making an incomparably better impression.

The contrasts—furnished over and over again, day after day, at each convention—were too sharp to leave any room for doubt. The orator is going to have to change his style. The tricks that went over big in the day of vast outdoor meetings fall utterly flat on the radio. The passionate shout becomes a nuisance; the impressive pause becomes a bore. The orator of tomorrow will be the man who can say what he has to say quickly, quietly and with restraint. The school of Senator Souder is done for.

PROLONG THE AGONY.

Just about the best comment that could be made on the depression seems to have come from a New York banker. This man, as quoted in press association dispatches the other day, remarked:

"New Yorkers are all afraid of something that is going to happen. They don't know what it is, but they're afraid just the same. The plain truth is that it already has happened and that we are still alive and moving. I doubt if any crisis that could possibly arise would be worse than what we have survived."

There has been, of course, an enormous amount of fake optimism broadcast since the depression began. If it had been possible for us to talk ourselves back to economic health we would be robust by this time. But at the same time there has been an amazing undercurrent of fear, and this, like the verbal optimism, has been sadly overdone.

For more than a year people have been expressing this fear privately. You've heard them—everyone has. Dark prophecies of doom have enlivened every bridge party and every luncheon table. The result has been the acquisition by the country of a pronounced case of the jitters.

And yet, when you get down to it, isn't this New Yorker just about right? The thing we're so afraid of has already happened to us. We have already hit bottom. The worst has come, and we have somehow lived through it. Any move that we make now is bound to be upward, because we can't possibly go down any farther.

It would do us a lot of good if we could manage to get that fact through our heads.

Timidity and jittery nerves do not provide the best possible background for a business revival. While we are walling, and looking for new and blacker storm clouds to arise, the stage is slowly being set for a return to prosperity. If we stop looking behind each bush for a bogeyman we can recognize our opportunity when it arrives. If we don't we shall simply prolong the agony.

A CHALLENGE TO OUR CITIES.

The urgent need of every large city for funds with which to carry on settlement, playground and similar activities among its underprivileged groups is sharply emphasized by a recent report from a city mission in New York.

This mission, which specializes in providing brief country "vacations" for children from the tenement areas, reports that the children it is caring for this summer are weaker and punier than ever before. Instead of trying to give them a little recreation, it is working to prevent them from actual breakdown and from diseases of malnutrition.

The depression is beginning to levy its toll on child health, and the toll is a cruel one. A similar problem is present in every sizable city. The challenge to tax-supported and private relief agencies is one that must be met. Whatever happens, the children of the unemployed must be protected.

The TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

As Duncy lay upon the ground, the other Tinymites gathered all around and Scouty grabbed poor Duncy and said, "Hey, lad, are you hurt?"

"It started us to see you fall, and it was not your fault at all. It was a stone the chariot hit that threw you in the dirt."

Poor Duncy said, "Oh, I guess not, and yet my side hurts quite a lot. I'll see if I can stand up, but catch me if I drop."

"I tried to take that ride real slow, but how that old dog loves to go. I yelled at him repeatedly, but he just wouldn't stop. And then the lad arose to his knees. He seemed to get that far with ease, but when he tried to stand up straight, it brought him too much pain."

"Oh, my," said Windy. "That's too bad. To see you suffer makes me sad. Don't try to get up any more 'cause it is just in vain."

Then Duncy fell back to the ground. Said Coppy, "Some way must be found to take him to the doctor who takes care of circus folk."

"You see, that crazy little slip may have affected wee Duncy's hip. Let's help him in a hurry, 'cause this isn't any joke."

Wee Windy said, "I'll run and get a stretcher. Then we will be set to carry Duncy to the doctor in his tent."

"The rest of you can stay right here. I'll hurry both ways, never fear." And while the others waited anxiously, off Windy ran.

In just about five minutes, he was back, and Coppy shouted, "Gee! That stretcher is the very thing! Come, help me lift this lad."

When Duncy was placed, safe and sound, they lifted him right off the ground. Said Scouty, as they started off, "I hope your hurt's not bad."

(Duncy arrives at the hospital in the next story.)

MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS
TACKLE HARD TASK

Seek to Scale Lofty Summits of Nanga Parbat.

Washington.—Nanga Parbat is to be attacked this summer.

This means that the world's eighth highest mountain will be stormed by climbers intent on conquering heights greater than any ever before attained by man. The party of mountaineers, consisting of Germans and Americans recently arrived in India, where local guides will be added. A bulletin from the National Geographic society tells of this mountain that has lured climbers half around the world.

Eighth Highest Mountain.

"Although Nanga Parbat with an altitude of 28,620 feet, is eighth among the world's peaks," says the bulletin, "it probably ranks much closer to the top of the list when difficulty in climbing is considered. It rises from a relatively low base is furrowed by tremendous glaciers and is surrounded by numerous large boulder-covered moraines on the lower slopes that must be clambered over before the real climb starts. The top mile consists largely of sheer precipices. Glaciers can be followed to a certain point; but above the glaciers on the south side there is 15,000 feet still to go and on the north side, 12,000 feet."

In Western Kashmir.

"Nanga Parbat is a Himalaya peak, and therefore probably is bracketed in the minds of many with Mount Everest, highest point on earth. But such is the magnitude of the Himalaya range that the two peaks are more than 900 miles apart. Everest is almost in the longitude of the eastern edge of India, while Nanga Parbat is in the extreme western portion of Kashmir."

"Nanga Parbat, in fact, is a lone eagle among the loftiest peaks. It towers nearly a mile and three-quarters above all peaks within a radius of 120 miles. This lack of nearby competitors accentuates the huge scale on which the mountain is built."

"Although this mountain is probably as difficult to scale as any, save one or two, in Asia, it has one advantage in the accessibility of its base. The Gilgit trail, from Srinagar, capital of Kashmir, to Gilgit and on to Chinese Turkestan, runs close to the base of Nanga Parbat near the hill town of Astor. The existence of this trade trail, and along it numerous villages, simplifies the food problems of those attempting to scale the peak."

One Attempt Fatal.

"The only serious attempt to climb Nanga Parbat was made in the summer of 1905 by a party of Englishmen led by A. F. Mummery. While the main party shifted its base camp, Mr. Mummery and two Gurkha assistants attempted a climb above 20,000 feet and lost their lives, presumably in an ice avalanche. Falls of both ice and rocks are frequent on the mountain slopes in summer."

"The only named peaks higher than Nanga Parbat are Everest, 29,002 feet; Kinchinjunga, 28,293; Godwin Austen, 28,250; Makalu, 27,790; and Dhaulagiri, 26,765. Two other peaks, denominated T45 and XXX in the Great Trigonometrical Survey of India, are also higher, having altitudes of 28,807 and 29,058 feet, respectively. All of these world 'top notches' are in the ranges of northern India."

Sidelights In
News In Capital
Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington.—Not the least of the absorbing questions going the rounds in Washington in the aftermath of the Chicago convention period is where will the "progressives" in the Senate be found in the coming campaign.

Governor Roosevelt's bid for their support seems to be open. In his speech of acceptance that wound up the Democratic convention in Chicago he made it clear that Republican "leadership" rather than the Republican party per se would be the object of his attacks in the coming campaign.

Norris of Nebraska, who swung to Smith in 1928, already has made his position clear. He will not merely support Roosevelt. He'll take the stump for him, probably in some of the midwestern key states.

The position of that arch enemy of President Hoover—Johnson of California—is not so clear at the moment. But Senator "Hi" has gone far enough to make Republican stalwarts feel nervous and shaky.

HOW FAR WILL HE GO?

His praise of Roosevelt can mean but one thing in the light of his known feelings toward the President—a backhand slap. Whether he'll go further and actually declare for the New York Governor remains to be seen.

But it's far from pleasant to those who hope for a Republican victory in November to think that Johnson will even remain lukewarm in the coming campaign. In 1928, when he was running for the Senate, he was at least amicable with the national ticket.

But they've never been able to forget entirely what "Hi" Johnson did to Republican hopes in 1916 when Charles Evans Hughes was running against the mistake of slighting Johnson when he campaigned in California.

Johnson never came out openly against Hughes, but he was lukewarm after that incident. California went for Wilson at the same time he was elected Senator.

His political influence may not be as great now as it was then. But still he must be taken seriously.

TIME WILL TELL—

Time must also determine the course of the other "progressives." Blaine of Wisconsin supported Smith four years ago. Then there's Nye and Frazier of North Dakota. And of course Borah of Idaho.

All of them have been dubbed "sons of the wild jackass" and "pseudo-Republicans" by men high in administration councils. Another Roosevelt campaigning for the presidency might prove a bit of magic difficult for them to resist.

FRENCH VICTORY

On July 12, 1918, French troops stormed German positions on a three-mile front north of Cantigny, and advanced more than a mile in the face of fierce resistance and frequent counter-attacks. They seized and held Castel during the day's fighting.

In Asia Minor, Turkish troops attacked British positions in Palestine commanding the crossings of the River Jordan, but were driven off with great loss.

In the Balkans, further allied gains were reported and semi-official advice said that Bulgarian troops were offering little resistance to the allied advance.

THEVENOW IS PROVING VALUE TO PIRATES NOW

Sub For Pie Traynor Is Fielding Well: Gets Hits Too

By Herbert W. Barker
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baseball holds scarcely any job more thankless than the task of filling the third-base shoes of Harold (Pie) Traynor but Tommy Thevenow is making an excellent stab at it.

Thevenow lost his place at short-stop in the Pittsburgh Pirate outfit early in the season because of his punny batting average and rode the bench day after day until last week when Traynor went out with a finger injury.

Since then he not only has fielded well but has shown distinct signs of emerging from his long batting slump. His average for his last four games stood at .313 today and he has been getting his hits where they would do the Pirates the most good.

Yesterday it was his hitting that enabled the Pirates to trim Brooklyn 5-3, give Steve Swetonic his 10th victory of the season and increase Pittsburgh's lead over the second place Chicago Cubs to two and a half games. Tommy drove in two runs with a single in the fifth and then led off with a triple in the eighth and scored the last run on Lloyd Waner's third single. It was Pittsburgh's ninth victory in 11 games. Since May 19 the Pirates have won 34 games and lost only 14 for an average of .708.

Win On Six Hits
The Cubs bowed to Huck Betts and the Boston Braves 8-2 although the Braves got only six hits. They bunched three of these with a pass and a wild throw by Stanley Hack to score five runs in the first inning. Kees pounded Hadley and Cooney and drive Pat Malone to cover.

In the American League the Yankees hit 15 including homers by Joe Sewell and Ardt Jorgensen buried the St. Louis Browns under a 15-4 score and stretched their lead to seven and one-half games over the second place Philadelphia Athletics.

The Athletics dropped two to Cleveland as the two clubs picked up where they had left off in their 18-inning game at Cleveland Sunday. Together they scored 36 runs on 62 hits as Cleveland won 9-8 and 12-7. Earl Averill clouted three homers and Jimmy Foxx got his 34th.

Al Thomas stopped the Chicago White Sox with seven hits as Washington bunched safeties for a 5-1 decision. Detroit clung to third place by beating the Boston Red Sox 5-3 behind the effective pitching of George Uhle and the heavy batting of Davis and Webb.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

When the New York State Athletic Commission, in Bologna Bulletin, Number 9,326,369, announced that hereafter the radio broadcast at prize fights must be placed in the hands of experts, it made everything perfectly clear.

Up to now, apparently, the N. Y. S. A. C. has left the matter of the broadcasts in charge of inept experts. And now, would the N. Y. S. A. C. kindly tell the folks just what and WHO is an expert?

THE MACK MACHINE

Stories to the effect that Connie Mack was very disgusted with many of his athletes — this year, and that certain infielders, outfielders, pitchers and catchers had been placed upon the block willy-nilly, are just so much spinach. When and if Mr. Mack decides to trade any of his players, you may depend upon it that Mr. Mack will get full value received. Mr. Mack is not tearing down any more ball clubs, but trying very hard to build one up.

SCHALK AT BUFFALO

Tidings from Buffalo operatives glowingly describe the success of Ray Schalk as manager of the Bisons. It will be recalled that Schalk never had much luck as manager of the Chicago White Sox. But then, Mr. Schalk undoubtedly has a better team at Buffalo than he ever had at the Chicago camp.

SEVEN ERRORS BY COLTS GAVE LEE A VICTORY

Only Two Members Scarboro Team Failed to Make Misplay

(Telegraph Special Service)

Scarboro, July 12—Seven errors were responsible for the loss of the first place position in the Community baseball league by Webster's Colts of this place to Lee last Sunday afternoon on the latter's field before the largest crowd of fans assembled this season. Only two members of the Scarboro team, Henry and Thompson managed to stay out of the error column during the afternoon. ## SOMETHING MORE THAN DEPRESSION HAS STRUCK WHEAT

That's Opinion Of Peter B. Carey, Head Chi. Board Of Trade

Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade Saturday asserted that "something more than a business depression" has been wrong with wheat values.

Speaking on the Farm Forum program of the National Broadcasting Company network, the Board of Trade executive declared the entire world looks hopefully to American agriculture to light the way out of the present unsatisfactory situation and pledged commodity exchange leadership to accomplish this purpose.

In comparing 1932 wheat prices of less than 50 cents a bushel with other depression years, Mr. Carey said: "The price of July wheat in Chicago recently was well under 50-cent level. The lowest July price during the terrible depression of 1873 was $1.14; a bushel. Many recall the depression of 1893 when grain stalked through the land. In a few months 467 banks failed, and in that safe year 169 railroads fell into distress and every industry was stagnant. Yet the lowest wheat price in July that year was 66 1/2 cents a bushel. In 1917 when pig iron dropped 50 per cent in a few months the lowest price in July was 89 cents a bushel. How the American farmer would rejoice today at 89 cent wheat!"

"In 1921 there was a great commercial and financial collapse which carried farm prices down sharply and depreciated values of farm lands. Yet during this serious period the lowest July wheat price was $1.18 1/2 a bushel. And the following year, when the deflation had not yet run its course, farmers were stunned by the low price of wheat, the bottom touched by the July price being $1.09 1/2 a bushel.

"New let us follow along up to the present time. The Agricultural Marketing Act became law June 15, 1929, and under that act the farm board was created. On July 5, 1929, cash wheat sold at Chicago for $1.23 1/2. On July 5, 1930, cash wheat sold at Chicago for 88 1/2 cents. On July 6, 1931 cash wheat sold at Chicago for 56 cents; on July 5, 1932, cash wheat sold at Chicago for 48 1/2 cents a bushel. It would appear from the foregoing, and the record of previous depressions, that something more than a business depression has been wrong with wheat prices."

Hundreds of thousands of farmers through their accredited leaders are urging the Board of Trade to do all in its power to aid agriculture, Mr. Carey asserted. He added that "these leaders point out that under the former system of free and open markets which quickly absorbed the offerings from the farm, prices were very much higher and agriculture in general prospered."

In the concerted move for higher price levels, representatives of farmers in congress now are endeavoring to reduce the tax on commodity sales for future delivery from 5 cents to 2 cents per $100, Mr. Carey said. "The lower figure would be an increase of 100 per cent over the former tax but the markets could survive and the tremendous burden reflected back to the producer would be removed," he explained.

Refraining from predictions of price, Mr. Carey hailed the spirited recovery in hog prices as a favorable omen and asserted that "immediate removal of the new burdensome tax upon the farmer's produce and a period of market freedom will do more than all the nostrums ever suggested in the way of immediate relief and in the way of aiding the farmer back to a permanent prosperity."

Honey Bees Like Up-To-Date Homes

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill., July 12—(AP)—William J. Feldman, bee-man is now convinced the honey-making insects know a good home when they see one.

It is swarming time among his bees. For use in emergencies when swarms of bees left old hives, Feldman had placed some empty hives in a convenient spot.

He was standing among his bees. Humming out of the northeast came a new, stray swarm. Their leader spied one of the empty hives. Into it they went and established a home.

Now they are Feldman's bees.

W.F. PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

The Democrats have their platform and the Republicans have theirs and sometimes we are in considerable doubt as to which one deserves our support.

But there is no question in my mind about the "platform" that middle western poultry raisers should adopt:

Think more about the number of pounds of poultry you can produce than the number of head you can raise. For the POUNDS that count today.

Three years ago a 2-pound chicken brought 4 cents a pound more than a 4-pound bird. Now just the opposite is true. Your 4-pound birds are worth 4 and 5 cents a pound more than 2-pound chickens. The wise poultry raiser changes his program to fit the market and produces what brings him the most money.

Today that is BIG CHICKENS.

Not So Much Call for Small Birds

There is not the call for small chickens that there used to be. One reason is that they are used mostly by steamship companies, dining car people, and hotels. Their business at present is materially less than it used to be.

And when they do serve chicken, as I have told you before, they often find it more satisfactory to serve the breast of chicken rather than a half chicken. So they take a larger bird and use the other parts in combination dishes, which are very popular.

The lessened demand for the smaller birds is more than well supplied from two sources: the people who raise chickens to 1 1/2 to 2 pounds in these "battery brooders" that I wrote you about last week and the people on specialized poultry farms. These chickens are raised primarily for egg production and the cockerels are a by-product and are all sold as soon as possible.

Market Conditions Improved

I am pleased to say that with the advancing prices on cattle and hogs conditions seem to be more favorable. It looks as if we may finally realize that better price for eggs that we have all been expecting for so long.

I see, too, more encouragement for the protection of fine poultry—the kind the consumer wants.

Sincerely Yours,

W.F. Priebe

Horse Breeding Is On Upward Trend

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 12—(AP)—Horse breeding in Illinois is again trending upward. After a decline that has continued since 1918, according to records of the state station registration service.

More licenses were issued and renewed in the fiscal year that ended June 30, than during the preceding year.

Investigation of the files showed that, with the exception of 1925, the registration of stallions and jacks has decreased continuously for fourteen years, until the fiscal year that ended June 30.

The most rapid decline in the horse breeding business, Director S. E. Pierson of the Department of Agriculture said, was experienced between 1918 and 1925—the period in which motor trucks and tractors came into prominence. There was a slight upturn in 1925, but since that year, there has been a gradual reduction.

ARE HOGS LEADING US TO BETTER TIMES? RISE IN PORK PRICE MEANS $200,000,000 MORE FOR NATION'S FARMERS

HOGGING THE LIMELIGHT in the market news just now is Mr. Porker, shown above in a striking closeup, who has recently added $200,000,000 to the value of the American farmers' holdings by the advance in hog prices. It may be that he will lead us out of the depression by leading other farm prices upward. Chart shows how hog prices on Chicago market have turned upward in recent weeks.

By JOHN W. LOVE

EDITOR'S NOTE — John W. Love, author of the following article, is business editor of the Cleveland Press and a well-known writer on economic subjects. He is a frequent contributor to business and financial journals of national circulation.

The long decline in wholesale commodity prices seems to be near an end. At least, the signs appear to point in that direction.

With hogs leading the parade of rising farm prices and other lines showing signs of joining in joyful procession, many millions of dollars have been added recently to the value of the holdings of the nation's farmers, with whose purchasing power prosperity begins.

The rise has continued for several weeks, giving hope that the change is at last fundamental.

The recent addition of $2 a hundred pounds to the price of hogs adds a "paper profit" of over $200,000,000 to the property of the farmers of America. It means that $4 has been added to the value of every hog now owned by the farmers since the government now estimates there are 50,000,000 hogs on American farms and they will average 200 pounds each.

Others Show Improvement

The recent rise in prices has also extended to cattle and beef. Cotton, corn, wheat and other crops have also shown improvement.

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers' Paper

Chicago, Ill., July 12—(AP)—Prices for farm products have been doing better in the last three weeks, the Prairie Farmer's Weekly market review said.

"Besides the pronounced advances in hogs, cattle and sugar," the review declared, "firmness has appeared in cotton and wool, and the grain dairy and poultry markets have become more stable. Time will reveal whether this change is another flash in the pan or has lasting qualities."

"Cattle arrivals in the last six weeks have been small in numbers and light in weight, promoting a rise of fully a dollar in the prices. Choice cattle may become still more scarce and supplies of hogs probably will be scanty for the next two months, but a seasonal increase in grassers is to be expected beginning in the second half of July. Prices for good and choice cattle probably will work irregularly higher for another month or two. A steady to lower trend is to be expected in common and medium grades, as the western grass run expands."

"The rise of nearly 50 per cent in hog prices from the year's low mark in May was brought about largely by a drastic drop in receipts. Federal inspected slaughter at eight principal markets declined from 440,000 head in the week ending May 27 to 248,000 head in the week ending June 24, and still further shrinkage seems to have occurred in the closing days of June. Increased shipping orders indicate that runs at Eastern points also have fallen off sharply. It seems unlikely that all of the summer advance has been concentrated in four weeks' time, but further gains probably will be interrupted by much irregularity.

"Lamb markets have been losing ground in the face of strength in cattle and hog prices. Receipt have been increasing and dressed prices have been declining. Wool trade has improved for four consecutive weeks."

"Whether the stability in wheat prices late in June will be followed by a further drop or by an upturn depends upon new crop developments which cannot be foreseen. Thus far, the early movement of winter wheat has been readily absorbed by mills so that the weak speculative buying power has not encountered much hedging pressure. Buying for import abroad to restrict takings of foreign wheat as far as possible and wait for new home-grown supplies there."

With a large acreage and favorable growing weather thus far, a large corn crop is in prospect, although two critical months are ahead. Prices will be influenced largely by the crop news and by the behavior of wheat. However, prevailing low prices seem to discount a rather large crop, receipts have continued light, demand has improved recently and the visible market supplies have been decreasing rapidly."

"Prices of oats averaged lower in July than in June about two years out of three and August prices have been lower than July with still greater regularity."

"Butter prices turned firm at the end of June, under influence of seasonal decline in the make and decreasing movement into storage. Late summer production

It was high time that something intervened to turn the current of prices in the other direction. By averaging all wholesale commodity prices together it has been possible to show that they had gone as low as they were in 1905 and 1906. This has meant that debts contracted in flush years after the World War had to be paid with dollars which suddenly became as valuable as dollars were in 1905 and 1906. Dollars were dollars then, you remember, and they have been the same sort of dollars again—big dollars, hard-earned dollars, precious dollars.

Hogs Highest in Months

The recent price excitement has centered mainly on the hog market, because Chicago hog quotations advanced approximately $2, reaching their highest point since last October. This particular rise carried the price of $5.40, a hundredweight, as against $3.30 a hundredweight on the Chicago market during the last week in May.

Cattle and sheep likewise responded with new highs, and on the same day cotton had advanced $5 a bale from its low.

Of course, this would be considered a very low hog price by all that we had been used to before 1931. A price of $8 is needed to help put the corn belt on its feet again. But another increase of the same amount would bring the price close to that. The highest in recent years was around $11 in 1929.

probably will exceed last year's owing to larger numbers of cows on farms and chances of better pastures. This may lead to new low prices later on.

"Egg prices are holding slightly above the season's lowest levels early in June. Production and market receipts are under-going seasonal shrinkage, although they have not diminished as rapidly as usual since April. Light storage stocks favor a liberal rise in the prices for fresh eggs."

Dixon Boy Scored Well At Ag. School

URBANA-Champaign Ill., July 12—Six students in the University of Illinois College of Agriculture completed their second semester's work with "B" grades, a perfect average, Dean Herbert W. Mumford announced here today.

One hundred twenty-nine other students in the College made grades of "C" or better. The "B" is equivalent to "A" in the letter grading system, while the "C" ranks with "B."

Included in the list of those with high grades are Elmer E. Williams, RR 1, Dixon whose grades for the semester averaged 4.14.

CULLING COWS WILL KEEP MUCH MILK OFF MARKET

Is Paving Way To Better Prices For All Dairy Products

Urbana, Ill., July 12—Paving the way to stronger markets and better prices for dairy products, members of Illinois dairy herd improvement associations are culling their cows at a record rate thus reducing heavy surpluses of milk, it is reported by C. S. Rhode, dairy extension specialist of the College of Agriculture University of Illinois.

It is estimated that more than 20,000,000 pounds of milk will be kept off the market this year if culling continues at the rate it has been going during the first five months, Rhode said. In that time members of dairy herd improvement associations have culled out nearly 10 per cent of their cows and sold them for beef. At that rate almost a fourth of the cows in the herds of members will be culled during the year, a much heavier than normal rate, it was explained.

There are approximately 1,400 dairymen, the owners of more than 20,000 cows, who are members of the 55 dairy herd improvement associations now functioning in the state, Rhode reported. They are organized by the extension service of the agricultural college to teach farmers up-to-date methods of feeding, breeding and management and other practices which will enable them to market their dairy products to greater advantage.

Rigid culling which the members are now doing is expected to raise the already high efficiency of their herds. It is estimated that if the average cow in the state were as efficient as the average of the dairy herd improvement association cows that present production could be maintained with 40,000 less cows and herd owners would have $20,000,000 more to show for their work.

Benefits of the culling are indicated in the case of a Tazewell county dairymen who got rid of 11 cows, or almost a third of his 32-972 pounds less milk and 1,334 pounds less fat on the market the following year. The herd of 21 cows returned $985.43 more above cost of feed than the 43 cows had the year before.

Here's Prize Farm Story Of Season

Mendota—Believe it or not but Gustav Olafson had a hired man who takes the prize. Olafson wanted some help so he gave this young fellow a chance to work. During the first week there was rain every day so the fellow could not get out and do anything. One day Mr. Olafson asked the man to go out and cut off or dig out some burdock. He came back in about half an hour and said it was too wet. When it came to plow corn, he waited until the team was hitched to the cultivator and then he decided that he did not want to work. He walked out of the yard as Mr. Olafson stood watching him. He had a week's board and a good bed to sleep in and he was off to find some other farmer who would treat him as well. The wonder is that he did not make Mr. Olafson pay him for the week that he was on the job. Olafson can consider himself lucky on that one score.

Union County Is Making A Record

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 12—(AP)—Out of 12,715 head of cattle in Union county, only three reacted to bovine tuberculosis tests, thereby giving the county the best record in Illinois for lowest degree of infection, the state department of agriculture announced today.

D. W. Robison, superintendent of animal industry, stated today that the accreditation will be made for the six-year period, in order that the state may avoid the expense of another complete test until six years hence. This plan in his opinion, will give the county ample protection against the disease, providing the quarantine regulations are faithfully observed.

Tests performed in June brought about issuance of re-accreditation certificates to four other Illinois counties: Pike county with a total cattle population of 27,797, Putnam with 6,617; Saline with 11,783 and Stark, with 12,185 head.

VISIT MEANS JAIL

EVANSTON, Ind.—David Hepler 38, just walked into jail. He called to do some business at the Probation Department, which is in the police station. On his way out he was met by Detectives Ashworth and Duncan, who were waiting for him on a charge of passing bad checks. He pleaded not guilty.

Sheep growers of 50 Tennessee counties disposed of their wool through a pool this year.

Old Gobbler Guards Children on Estate

LEONARDTOWN, Md.—There is an old turkey gobbler here that is causing widespread interest in his dog-like instincts.

He follows the children of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Swann around like a dog would do, and if any stranger comes on the place or near the children he flies at them, gobbling frantically, beating his wings and trying to peck them in his effort to guard the children.

The Swanns live on part of the large Tudor estate, which belongs to the prominent Key family of southern Maryland. Tudor Hall lands surround three-fourths of Leonardtown.

LIGHTS of NEW YORK

"One reason the theater business is bad," said Mike Jacobs, the big shot among ticket brokers, "is that in these days persons pick their spots."

"What do you mean by that?" I asked him.

"Why," said Mr. Jacobs, "in the old days, if you didn't have seats for the show they demanded, you could sell them seats for some other show. That frequently was very useful, as you might have tickets for a show you were trying to boost. But you can't do that any more. The customers accept no substitutes. They make up their minds how many shows they can afford to see, and then they budget their money among the shows they particularly wish to see. If you don't happen to have the reservations they want, they walk out on you and go to a movie. As a result, a few hits are doing all the real business. In the good old days," said Mike sadly, "it was not like that at all. Everybody had money and would spend it for almost any sort of entertainment. Now they have become hard-boiled."

"Broadway," continued Mr. Jacobs, "has changed until the old timers wouldn't recognize it. The old Broadway doesn't exist any more. Once you could stroll along under the bright lights and meet a dozen persons you knew in every block. Broadway was a street filled with color, life and laughter. It held the flash of jewels and the rustle of silks. The popping of corks was like machine gun fire. There was music and gay conversation. Now the Bowery has come to Broadway. The old rainbow tint has vanished. But for the movie theaters, the street would be as dead as a burned-out bulb."

It certainly is true that the new generation never will know the old White Way. Martin's and Rector's are only memories. The old Shanley's is gone. No longer does Captain Churchill welcome friends and patrons in the early hours of the morning and chat with them concerning the news of the day and stories of the night. There is no "Diamond Jim" Brady and none to take his place. The young men of Manhattan, the politicians, the theatrical crowd are scattered around in various speakeasies on side streets, but there is no one place where you may be sure of finding many of them. The best collections are to be observed at private parties given by hosts who still have enough left to entertain. I am speaking of the "after the theater" crowd. There are still one or two restaurants where you are reasonably sure of seeing some one you know at luncheon or dinner. But in the main the best place to be alone with your thoughts is in a hotel dining room.

I have been learning a few things concerning banks. They tell me, for example, that every check drawn costs a New York bank about six cents. That includes printing and handling. The time locks on most of the ordinary vaults are controlled by three clocks, so that if one gets out of order, the other two will do the job. These clocks generally are set for 8 a. m. and reset every morning. If anyone should get locked in a vault on Saturday, he would be out of luck, because the clocks will not do their stuff until Monday.

The really big banks have a most intricate system of alarms. As I understand it, if a holdup man so startled an employee that his knees knocked or his teeth chattered, he would set off gongs all over the place. In that case, guards would pour from all sorts of spots like water over Niagara falls. They tell me that a new employee in one of the larger banks did set off an alarm by accident and was almost scared to death by the instantaneous and mystifying appearance of a platoon of guards armed with Tommy guns. For all I know, they also held bowie knives in their teeth.

No Positive Proof of Mankind's Original Home

The mere fact that primitive types of mankind have been found as far apart as Java, England and China means that these three divergent descendants of some common ancestor had already wandered to the extreme limits, east and west, of the great continental land mass after they had become differentiated in the process of their evolution. Hence the fact of their world-wide wanderings indicates that none of these three places necessarily has any relationship at all to the place of the original home of mankind.

Ten years ago there was found in Rhodesia the fossilized skull of a primitive type of man which may have survived in this part of the world until comparatively recent times; but whether the actual example of Rhodesian man whose remains were found in the Broken Hill mine is ancient or modern, he certainly represents an extremely primitive type of the human family, possibly near akin to the Heidelberg man whose jaw was found in Germany in 1907. This bizarre member of the human family is definitely distinct from all other known types of extinct man.—New York Times.

FAIRS WILL GET FIFTY-SEVEN CTS. ON EACH DOLLAR

State Director Of Agriculture Announces Premium Funds

Springfield, Ill., July 12—(AP)—Fifty-seven cents on the dollar is all county fairs of Illinois will get in the 1932 distribution of state aid for premium reimbursements, Stuart E. Pierson, director of agriculture announced today. His estimate is made on the following basis:

Sixty-three fairs eligible to participate in state aid have offered $677,435 in premiums for the classes on which state aid supplies of which, it is estimated $613,240.28 will actually be distributed.

Claims for premium reimbursement from the state, in recent years, have averaged sixty-two per cent of the payments, and that would indicate that the claims, this year, will approximate $380,208.93.

The General Assembly last year, appropriated, from the fund collected at the racetracks, $520,000 for state aid to the county fairs of Illinois for 1931 and 1932. Last year, this fund was drawn upon for $304,677.34, which left $215,322.66 available for distribution this year.

If the fairs now eligible pay out as much as their recorded intentions indicate, the claims will total about $380,208.92. The fund available, $215,677.34 is about $164,531.92 less than the claims anticipated.

The law provides that the director of agriculture must prorate the balance available between the participating fairs. From this, it is apparent that a fair that claims $1,000 from the state will get only about $567.

The distribution authorized contingent upon the balance in the appropriation being adequate, provides that the treasuries of the county fairs shall be reimbursed to the extent of $850 for the first $1,000 that they pay in premiums; $750 of the second $1,000; $1,300 of the next $2,000 and fifty five per cent of their premium payments in excess of $4,000.

The agricultural department head, in making this announcement, emphasized the fact that the balance in the fund created by the collection of license fees and admission taxes at the racetracks of the state can not be drawn upon to meet the reimbursement claims unless and until the General Assembly enacts an appropriation measure.

In his letter, informing secretaries of the fairs that this situation exists, Director Pierson explained that, in case some fairs suspend, or if premiums are reduced below the stated intentions of the associations, there would be some alteration of this estimated 56.7 per cent payment.

Illinois' Coaches

May Dig Up Taxes

Urbana, Ill., July 12 —(AP)—It looks like the University of Illinois coaches are going to contribute some much needed dollars to the federal treasury.

The Internal Revenue office at Springfield, Ill., announced yesterday that 38 coaches and other employees of the University's Athletic Association failed to file income tax returns for 1930 and 1931.

However, Collector O. G. Addleman said, no action will be taken against them because the oversight was due apparently to lack of sufficient information about the income tax law.

Most of the Illinois coaches are paid partly by the University and partly by Athletic Association funds. Salaries paid out of public appropriations to the school, Addleman said, are tax exempt, but that part paid by the Association is not.

The erring coaches, he said, apparently did not know this and they'll get off with only a warning to remit.

To Try Experiment In Scoring Boxing

Chicago, July 12 —(AP)—So that there may be no "surprise" decisions, the Illinois State Athletic Commission is going to try letting the customer add up the score in boxing matches.

The experiment of announcing the scoring of the referee and two judges at the end of each round will be tried tonight at the West Side Boxing Club's list of four round home talent bouts. The announcer will pick up the cards of the officials at the end of each heat, and tell the findings to the spectators who may do their own addition.

BARE SECRET LIFE OF IVAR KREUGER

World's Greatest Swindler Lived as Gay Libertine.

New York.—While big Chicago and New York banks are trying to recover millions of dollars they lost backing Ivar Kreuger, Swedish financial wizard and the world's greatest swindler, facts have come to light revealing his private life in New York, Paris and elsewhere as that of a libertine who lived secretly in gayety as he lived openly as a hard-headed financial genius.

It has been found that he had the staggering sum of $168,000,000 in personal debt and indirect liability against his name when he committed suicide in Paris in March. I have been discovered that his books were falsified for eight years while he was traveling around the financial centers of the world raising enormous sums from the most astute bankers.

There will be little or nothing for unsecured creditors, and scores of millions handled by him appear now to be irretrievably lost.

Once a demigod to a hero-worshipping world, the silent, dominating financier has been proved to possess all the frailties of pleasure-loving mortals. The illusion that he lived only to work, which he cultivated so that he might juggle millions by forgery and bargaining, has been exploded in an astounding exposure of his bluff.

Purchased Secrecy.
Always the millions he was able to display enabled Kreuger to purchase the secrecy of the woman who visited his secret hideaways. And yet in the years during which Kreuger flitted from country to country, from continent to continent, not one of his women companions during his lifetime gave the least public hint of associations that seldom acquired the dignity of true companionship.

Out of the dust and confusion of the crash that followed Kreuger's suicide, a picture of the man has emerged. Each day the outline grows bolder, more details are filled in. The spectral figures loom against a variety of amazing background.

Kreuger on a little island off Sweden for weeks at a time, surrounded by gay women, sparkling champagne, soft lights, seductive music.

Kreuger in a New York penthouse, or in his Paris mansion, with his women, his wine and his princely luxury.

A scornfully smiling Kreuger making rubber stamps of the signs.

Purchased Secrecy.
Always the millions he was able to display enabled Kreuger to purchase the secrecy of the woman who visited his secret hideaways. And yet in the years during which Kreuger flitted from country to country, from continent to continent, not one of his women companions during his lifetime gave the least public hint of associations that seldom acquired the dignity of true companionship.

Out of the dust and confusion of the crash that followed Kreuger's suicide, a picture of the man has emerged. Each day the outline grows bolder, more details are filled in. The spectral figures loom against a variety of amazing background.

Kreuger on a little island off Sweden for weeks at a time, surrounded by gay women, sparkling champagne, soft lights, seductive music.

Kreuger in a New York penthouse, or in his Paris mansion, with his women, his wine and his princely luxury.

Motorist Rivals Famed Effort of Paul Bunyan

Big Stone City, Minn.—The residents here compared George Volk, enant of Bellingham to Paul Bunyan of pioneer mythology after he had thrown a cow from Minnesota to South Dakota recently. The cow, one of a herd, was on the road in front of Volkenant's automobile. The cow was thrown from the road by the machine. Later testimony revealed that the cow had been hit in Minnesota, but had landed in South Dakota.

Two years later the Continental congress established the first American navy and one of the four captains appointed to command a ship was Capt. Abraham Whipple, leader of the paving stone fighters at the "salt water Lexington."

Giant Windmill Towers, Berlin Engineer's Plan

Berlin.—Hermann Honnef, builder of the giant towers of Germany's largest broadcasting station, Koenigsplatz, has developed an idea for a series of mammoth wind mills, which he claims, if followed out, would supply enough electric power for all of Germany at a cost of one penny per kilowatt hour.

Honnef got his idea during construction of the 256-meter radio tower. According to his design, a tower 270 meters high would be built, like a radio tower. Cross-bars at the top would support horizontally three giant wind wheels, each with a diameter of 100 meters. He declares that 60 such towers, strategically placed throughout Germany, could, in connection with the existing water power plants, supply the entire country.

A new porcelain on the market cannot be cracked when hit with a hammer or a mallet. In only shows a slight dent after a hard blow.

SIDE GLANCE

"You know, Hilda, it's remarkable to find two people who are interested in doing the same thing."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

ADmiral BYRD, ON HIS SOUTH POLE TRIP, TOOK TWO ICE BOXES TO KEEP FOOD FROM BECOMING TOO COLD!

IN JAPAN, A CHILD IS CONSIDERED AS ONE YEAR OLD ON THE DAY IT IS BORN, AND TWO YEARS OLD THE FOLLOWING NEW YEAR'S DAY.

In Japan, a child born on December 31st would be two years old the very next day, while an American baby, born at the same time, would be only one day old. But the Japanese people do not mind adding years to their lives. In fact, old age is actually looked forward to, even by the women, for it brings with it great respect, and the wants of the older persons are looked after by their families.

Prohibition at the Crossroads, No. 2—

BOOTLEG LIQUOR INDUSTRY BECOMES "BIG BUSINESS" AND GANGS RISE TO RICHES AS NATION GOES DRY

Underworld's Grasp of Power Is Big Chapter in History Of Federal Prohibition

Editor's note: This is the second of four stories on the history of prohibition, made especially timely by the recent action of the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

States that had had prohibition acts of their own knew about the words "bootlegger" and "speak-easy" long before 1920; but it was not until after Jan. 16 of that year, when the 18th amendment went into effect, that the words passed into the vocabulary of the country as a whole.

The illegal liquor industry seems to have got under way with no loss of time. The federal prohibition enforcement service made its first raids on Jan. 17, seizing two stills in Detroit and two in Hammond, Ind. In the first six months of that year the government seized 9533 stills.

Nevertheless, the era of the amendment began with the prohibitionists supremely confident that the law would be made effective without too much trouble.

The first prohibition commissioner was John F. Kramer of Ohio, a lawyer and former legislator. He took over his new job announcing that "the law will be obeyed . . . and where it is not obeyed it will be enforced," adding that his men would see to it that liquor was neither made, sold nor transported "on the surface of the earth or under the earth or in the air."

Then Came Deluge

A few glances at the calendar may be interesting.

Before the amendment had been in effect a month a customs officer was complaining to Congress that a veritable flood of booze was being smuggled in over the borders, and demanded an appropriation of $2,000,000 to help choke it off.

On Feb. 19, 1920, two prohibition agents were arrested for selling out to bootleggers.

Before spring had come, federal agents had found that certain druggists were selling medicinal whiskey without waiting for doctors' permits.

By May, federal agents in New York were complaining that the New York police didn't help them enforce the law.

By early summer the federal district attorney in Chicago revealed that the federal court there was congested with prohibition cases awaiting trial.

All of these announcements were to be duplicated many times during the coming years. Meanwhile, the illegal liquor industry was getting its feet on the ground.

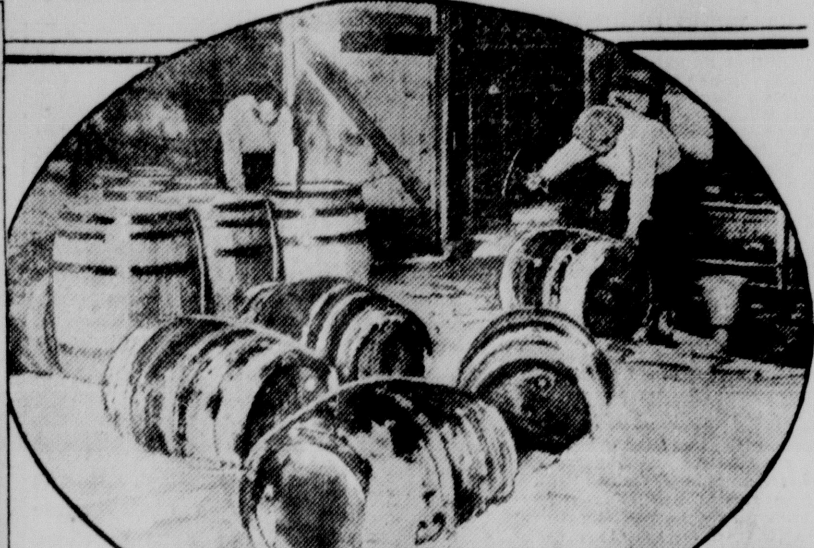

Smuggling First Source

At first, smuggling was the most important source.

The United States has more than 18,000 miles of border. In 1920 to prevent smuggling along those 18,000 miles it had 1550 dry agents and 3000 customs agents—and the Coast Guard. It soon developed that this combined force was hardly adequate.

Booze came in by auto and truck over the Canadian and Mexican borders. At sea, especially along the north Atlantic coast, there sprang into existence the famous "rum rows"—lines of liquor-laden ships, safely anchored or hove-to outside of territorial waters, which transferred their loads to smaller boats for the trip ashore.

For a time this went on in amazing proportions. By 1924, however, Congress reorganized the Coast Guard, spent $13,000,000 to equip 20 old navy destroyers for its use, and built a large fleet of small, fast boats armed with one-pounder rapid fire guns and machine guns.

In addition, the State Department negotiated treaties with such foreign governments as Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Holland by which its revenue cutters were permitted to stop and search suspected liquor boats anywhere within one hour's sailing distance of the coast.

This proved much more effective, and rum row lost a lot of its prominence. Nevertheless, in 1925 General Lincoln C. Andrews, prohibition commissioner, told the Senate that only about 5 per cent of the smuggled liquor was actually being seized.

Industrial alcohol also was proving a problem. Certain plants had permits to make alcohol for industrial uses, and it soon became evident that a lot of this was finding its way into various beverages. The government tried various formulas to make this alcohol unpalatable, but the bootleggers had their chemists, too, and they were able to counteract practically all of these formulas.

The near-beer plants—or, more strictly speaking, some of the near beer plants—further complicated things. To make near-beer, you first make real beer and then de-alcoholize it; and the bootleggers were not long in finding ways of shunting large quantities of this real beer in their direction before it got de-alcoholized properly.

Rise Of Gangland

Most spectacular of all phases of the illicit liquor business, of course was the underworld gang.

Most of the large cities developed booze-running gangs during the first decade of prohibition. Nowhere, however, did the gangs become as strong, as insolent in their activities or as incredibly blood-thirsty as in Chicago; and a brief discussion of the Chicago gangs shows the typical American underworld structure, as it has existed

Liquor Taxes And Enforcement Cost

The U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue in the fiscal year 1918—the year prior to the ratification of the prohibition amendment—collected in liquor taxes of various kinds the sum of $443,839,544.98.

This does not include state and local taxes.

The federal budget estimate for the U. S. Prohibition Bureau, salaries and expenses, for the fiscal year 1932-33 amounts to $11,369,500.

This does not include state and local enforcement costs.

under prohibition, at its most amazing and dismaying development.

Chicago, to be sure, has always had lawless gangs and many murders. Long before prohibition it had crooked police and political leaders working hand in glove with underworld figures. The advent of the illegal booze simply played into the hands of these gentry. They were not long in making the most of their opportunities.

At first, the beer-running and whiskey distributing business fell into the hands of fairly small neighborhood gangs. But organizers were not wanting, and three or four years after prohibition had begun Chicago had been divided into two parts, each provided with its booze—and all the other unlawful pleasures it desired—by a powerful gang.

The North Side was in the hands of a group of plug-uglies captained by a tough youngster named Dion O'Bannon, who ran a florist shop as a blind. The South Side was controlled by Johnny Torrio's gang, of which a young scar-faced Sicilian named Al Capone was chief lieutenant.

The fight seemed to be about over by the end of 1930, with Al Capone practically supreme and most of his opponents occupying garish coffins in various cemeteries. A year later, however, the federal government struck at the gangs through the income tax law, and today Capone is serving time in Atlanta prison—while Chicago hears ominous rumors that the lesser gang leaders are shortly to begin a new war, or series of wars, for control of the absent monarch's kingdom.

Nowhere else did the gangs ever become as notorious as in Chicago. But every large city had them, and still has them; and every large city has known its "beer wars," in which the leaders of a rich and flourishing business settle their disputes with guns because the business has no legal standing.

On Home-Made Basis

As the first decade of prohibition passed, the illegal liquor trade grew more systematized. Different localities developed their own sources of supply. Smuggling became less important in the general scheme of things, especially since Canada tightened up on the laws which govern exports of liquor from the Dominion.

The government's efforts to cope with the traffic changed, too.

General Andrews, plain-spoken and industrious, was the first to present a really comprehensive enforcement program—in 1926; and although Congress failed to give him the legislative changes he had asked for, it did, in that year, vote to put prohibition agents under civil service, to separate the Prohibition Bureau from the Internal Revenue Department, to increase the Prohibition Bureau's appropriations and to build new boats for the Coast Guard.

SQUINT

Mankind is capable of a fine degree of stereoscopic vision, by which we mean that man can see with a sense of depth things in relation to each other.

In order to achieve stereoscopic vision, one must see with both eyes.

Seeing with one eye does not give true stereoscopic vision, though a pseudo-sense of depth or perspective may be secured from the diminution in size noted as objects recede from the eye.

Squint interferes with stereoscopic vision, for in squint both eyes are not properly rotated to look upon a common object.

Squint may be due to a multitude of causes. Some involve the motor mechanism of the eye,

Tragedy May Send Libby Holman Back to Stage

By NEA SERVICE

New York—It is a legend of Broadway that its actors find healing for their personal shocks, bawls, and tragedies in the emotional outlet of their footlight roles.

And so the big street folk expect the return of Libby Holman, husky voiced crooner of blue ballads, when the first harsh pain of her tragic experience has eased. With or without any of the millions of her bullet-stricken young husband, Smith Reynolds, percentage says she will be back. Has not her manager, Walter Bachelor, flown twice to the Winston Salem scene where a nightmare denouement came to the North Carolina honeymoon of Reynolds and his bride?

Serious Student

It is known that Miss Holman was grooming for something more serious than a "lone wolf." "Moaning Low" adagio. When Reynolds first proposed marriage and a trip to the Orient—perhaps around the world—she spurned it largely because of preoccupation with stage studies. For Miss Holman, unlike so many of the torchy girls of Broadway, had the reputation of being a student, a great reader—even something of a "lone wolf." Seldom was she to be seen in the bright light spots. And it had been noted how often she appeared alone, although palpitant woosers deluged her with invitations and proposals.

Miss Holman, schooled in the University of Cincinnati and ready for the bar, was a student of the French classics when first she appeared in New York. A throat operation changed her plans. And to the amazement of friends, she might have been observed not long afterward as that very attractive second-girl-from-the-end in a Greenwich Village chorus line. She didn't stay there long. She was soon bringing down the roofs with "Give Me Something to Remember You By."

The presence of Blanche Yurka in the house of tragedy is linked with Miss Holman's ambitions.

Miss Yurka, one of the most scholarly of Broadway's performers and a ranking tragedienne, was both a friend and a mentor, it had been said. It was Miss Yurka who tried to bring back the Greek tragedy.

namely, those muscles which govern the rotation of the eyeball.

Again, squint may be the result of a defect in the visual mechanism of the eye within the eyeball.

Where the nerve element of the eye is intact and the squint is not due to a paralysis of the external muscles of the eye, a degree of correction may be achieved through spectacles and other non-operative treatment.

Squint in a child under 18 months of age or not particularly significant. One should, however, have the child's eyes examined to exclude the possibility of there being anything wrong with the nerve mechanism.

If the squinting eye has vision, the child may be trained to use its eyes properly by covering the well eye, thus obligating the child to see through the squinting eye.

This treatment, in combination with glasses which correct any defects in vision, and training for stereoscopic vision, may suffice in a number of instances to correct the squint.

THAT the business men of the home city have a desire to see the city grow and keep growing. If properly supported, they have the ability to carry that desire to a successful conclusion.

Your merchants carry the best, so why trade elsewhere?

To buy the right kind of merchandise at the right price is utmost in the minds of all.

If you will give all your business to your home merchants, the values given will be sure to make you a satisfied customer.

Have faith in your merchants and your city. That kind of faith is contagious, is the kind of faith that builds cities.
